The Jap Question Expanding

The Insider

Goes back in memory to first celebration of Admission day and recalls names of famous men and women who participated

I HAVE looked in vain, all the afternoon, for the name of the man who was the first to suggest the celebration of Admission day in San Francisco. Yet, taking the lack of utilities into consideration, it was a very good festival. It was on October 20, 1850, when the then known as Admission Day. The mail steamer Oregon brought the news that had been waiting so long for it.

THEY CAN STOP LA FOLLETTE

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE'S enemies in Wisconsin are tickled to death because the man who has ridden roughshod over them for years got himself badly mixed up with a teacher's institute at Pittsburg. Most of us know that La Follette's tongue is an unruly member. It is being in the middle and works both ways. It knows no such thing as fatigue. In San Francisco Senator La Follette began talking at dusk and kept at it until the small hours. It was a great occasion.

TWO UNIT APPOINTMENTS

THE Evening News of Los Angeles vigorously condemns the recent appointment of August Muenster, in these words: Senator Perkins has paid a political debt at the expense of the state by causing the president to appoint as the successor of John C. Lynch, internal revenue collector for California, State Senator Gus Muenster of Stockton, whose seat at Sacramento in the last legislative session authorized him to the shortest office.

NO GERRYMANDER FOR ARIZONA

STATEHOOD for Arizona is evidently proposed for a long time to come, and in all probability New Mexico will share the same fate. President Roosevelt announces that he will no longer insist on joint statehood, because the people of Arizona have shown by a decisive vote that they are opposed to union with New Mexico. As the population of Arizona is small, this means indefinite postponement. By way of alternative, it is proposed that Arizona shall unite with Nevada; but this proposition is no more likely to succeed than the other. There is too much politics about it. Senators Newlands and Nixon would be certain to oppose it in congress with all their power, and senatorial courtesy is a potent influence.

BAD TEMPER AND THE FLEET

THE eastern broker is much distressed and even terrified—his publications—because the president proposes to leave the Atlantic coast naked to its enemies. Visions of bombardments and invasions, alarms and excursions are writ large in editorial columns. There is the devil to pay because the fleet goes on-ward on the Pacific coast. There is not water enough in Lake Merritt

Chineses Interested

When Mr. Dixon was in Atlanta recently he expressed the placing of his restaurant in the new district as the Chinese population of a restaurant where the artist sometimes lashed out a sharp rebuke to the work. Having a mind bent on the matter, he asked the artist how much he would be paid for the work. Dixon explained that he was not paid by the day but by the finished work for the whole picture. It was a matter of dollars, but if the artist's estimate had been on the subject at hand. When they were finished he repeated, "How much you get? Four-hundred dollars a day?"
