There will be entertainment and addresses and a general good time. Room for two hundred.

WOODMEN'S CARNIVAL

The Carnival committee met on Monday night in the San Rafael Club rooms. The committees have about completed preliminary arrangements for the carnival. Prizes will be awarded to the best decorated store fronts, autos, carriages and floats. A number of letters have been received from different camps, telling of their intention to come with their teams and march in the procession. The various sub-committees are working earnestly, and are accomplishing the work that was deputed to their care. Special trains and boats have been secured for the convenience of visitors.

The San Anselmo trustees met Wednesday evening. A warrant was ordered drawn for $1140 in favor of Mr. Wessell in payment for property for opening Oak street and the deed was ordered placed on record.

A delegation from Kentfield asked the co-operation of the trustees in an effort to free the valley from mosquitoes. Mayor Schrader stated that the trustees had no money for that purpose, but stated that a private subscription would be taken up, and referred the committee to the Woman's Improvement Club, who would co-operate with them.

The question of the street railroad franchise was discussed, but as Mr. Salisbury desired a full board to act action was postponed until next Monday.

The supposition is that the Board will select a new trustee next Monday evening.

DEATH OF A. M. SOARES

A. M. Soares died at his home in San Rafael on Tuesday morning, April 15th, aged 58 years. The deceased was a native of the Azores Islands, but has spent the greater part of his life in this county, coming to San Rafael twenty-five years ago, and conducted the dairy business in the southeastern portion of the city, where he has been a useful and respected citizen.

The funeral services were conducted in St. Raphael's church and the interment was in Mount Olivet cemetery. He leaves a widow and two children and was a member of the U. P. E. C.

$5.00 IN GOLD GIVEN AWAY FREE

The Native Daughters of San Rafael are to hold a big benefit at the Star Theatre, Tuesday, April 22nd, 1913, the proceeds of which will be turned over to the Central Committee on Homeless Children.

An extra large program will be given of motion pictures and special vaudeville.

The main feature reel "The Cliff House Baby" shows the work done by the Native Sons and Daughters in placing homeless children in homes for adoption. This feature reel is in the nature of a photo-play based on an actual occurrence, and is the only photo-play ever filmed using San Francisco scenes... exclusively. An abandoned child was found on the Cliff House Beach in San Francisco, June, 1912, and was by F. J. Murasky, Judge of the Juvenile Court, awarded to the care of the Native Sons and Daughters Central Committee. "The Cliff House Baby" is an intensely interesting and educational film in two reels, and inasmuch as the Native Sons and Daughters place children regardless of race, creed or color, having placed nearly four hundred children in three years, and do not confine their noble task to members of their own Order, this benefit should have the large attendance it so fully deserves.

"The Cliff House Baby" will be shown herefor one day only, namely, Tuesday, April, 22nd. Remember the date. Come yourself and bring your friends and help the homeless kiddies. The tickets are all numbered and $5.00 in gold will be given away to the holder of the lucky ticket. The drawing takes place at the Star Theatre the day after the benefit. The committee having charge of the exhibition is composed of the Misses Anna Daly, chairman, Henriette Clark and Lillian Spaulding.

On account of the large program, the performance begins at 7 o'clock.

HEROES.

The American people hold in reserve a tremendous amount of character prepared for almost any emergency. Sordid love of money has not yet seriously affected the deep, strong undercurrent of public virtue. Men are better than we often admit. In this great land of ours there are at this moment thousands and even hundreds of thousands of heroes ready for an opportunity, for the opportunity makes the hero. The man who goes down into the depths of his own heart and examines his motives and then puts away overwhelming temptation—that man is a moral hero, second to no hero of smoke and battle. The woman who endures day by day and year by year sacrifice that daily grows heavier rather than take some easy way out of it—she is a moral heroine, and of such there are more in this great land than will ever be known. And it is this moral courage that will always save this good land of ours—a courage that had its source in the repugnant sternness of our Revolutionary ancestors and their lives of daily sacrifice and hardship. It was the thinking bayonets of the citizen soldiery and this invincible moral courage that gave the United States in all wars the best armies that ever marched or fought. Though decimated by disease and thinned by slaughter, they never despaired. They fought for principles and to save the country, and they saved the country. And it is because of that moral and physical courage that our glorious flag still floats over us today with no star lost or dimmed.—F. Landon Humphreys.

AMERICAN-LA FRANCE RESPONDS TO STILL ALARM

An American-La France fire truck arrived in San Rafael on Wednesday afternoon, and will give an exhibition before the city officials this morning (Thursday). The truck responded to a fire alarm, and in one minute went to the home of Joseph Hawkins and put out a chimney fire.

The La France auto-truck started from the fire house on C street and reached Mr. Hawkins' home, a distance of more than half a mile, in exactly one minute. The blaze was extinguished by chemicals, and no harm done to house or furnishings.

It would be well worth while for San Rafael to own a truck like the La France.

Mobbing the Militants.

The English militant suffragettes have succeeded in making themselves intolerable by their campaign of destructiveness. But, far from coercing the enemy into surrender, this warlike attitude has aroused a resentment in those formerly favorable or at least complacent toward the agitators. The result is that militancy has ceased to be a joke or a social diversion. The mob has become ugly and vengeful. Women are made objects of scorn without deference to sex. Lately it has come to a rough standup fight between the infuriated crowd and the police who attempt shielding the militants.

Meetings have been broken up, platforms rushed, speakers howled down and pelted and rescued with difficulty from personal violence. Outdoor meetings have fared worse than those held in public buildings. The opposition which began with heckling Mrs. Pankhurst during her speech some two months ago has increased in bitterness, grading through nicknames, threats, hisses and the cry to "duck" the suffragette, reaching a climax in the bespattering and mauling of the speakers by hostile mobs in London.

All this is deplorable and not to be condoned on any pretense. Lawlessness cannot cure lawlessness. Wherever started it should be put down with stern hand. But now that the mob is getting unruly, not to say dangerous, the militants would do well to read into their counsels the signs of the times. They can hope for nothing by continuing their insane assaults. The point is reached where a brutal chastisement may teach them that their so called determination is stupidity and the return of common sense alone can save their cause from disaster.

The house of representatives will hardly recognize itself when it meets and finds the old rows of desks missing. Legislation in the new chamber, with its serried benches and the members who attend within earshot of one another, ought to be easier and more orderly than it used to be in the departed bear garden.
