Face to Face With Roy T. Carruthers

Managing Director of the Waldorf-Astoria

By JOE MITCHELL CHAPPLE

At the Democratic National convention in New York, it was voted that Chairman Roy Carruthers was as busy with his own Waldorf convention as Chairman Walsh at Madison Square.

ROY T. CARRUTHERS Says: "New York City is an American axis—as much a center of the country's activities as Paris is to France or London to England."

The managing director of the Waldorf, Roy Carruthers, was born in Ohio. He understands politics as a duck does water.

The hotel was given over to the Democratic congressional committee from the first floor up, but he did not forget the delegation from his old home of Weiser, Idaho, where as a cowboy he had a ranch.

As manager of the Palace hotel in San Francisco, or managing director of the new Cadillac in Detroit, Roy Carruthers is an all-around, prominent hotel host, and understands not only what people would like to eat or where they would like to sleep, but what they want about a hotel that is not always visible or included in the items on the bill.

In the corridor was the seat of the "old jig" in which Thomas Jefferson rode when he journeyed to Philadelphia from Monticello to write the Declaration of Independence.

The passing panorama of celebrities made a good chair for observation in the lobby in the Waldorf during the evening equal to a seat at the theater.

habit established and continued in New York for 40 years. The information desk is a clearing house of "who's in town."

"A national political convention in New York means much to the metropolis. The hospitality of New Yorkers is now understood to be just the same as that of other folks. If the people could only understand the real New York, and New York could only understand the real folks who came to town, it would make a trip to New York something more than a business jaunt.

Just then "Large Host" Carruthers was called to the large room where tea was being served in that social hour of the afternoon—not always scheduled by figures on the clock.

CANDLER SETTLES WITH HIS WIFE

Atlanta Millionaire It Is Said, Has Paid Her $60,000 and She Will Not Contest His Action For Divorce and Waives All Claims To Alimony.

Atlanta, Ga., July 26 (AP)—A. G. Candler, millionaire founder of the Coca Cola company, made a cash settlement of $60,000 on his wife, Mrs. May Lettice Raggs Candler, prior to bringing his suit for divorce on grounds of cruelty and she will not contest the case, the Atlanta Journal said yesterday.

It is understood the newspaper added, that Mrs. Candler has waived all claims to alimony. The suit is expected to be called for trial in superior court here this afternoon.

The divorce petition was filed one year after the wedding and several months after the arrest of Mrs. Candler, W. J. Stoddard, in a fashionable apartment house here by the then Chief of Police James L. Beavers, who charged that he found them in a "table" which reposed a partly filled bottle of whiskey.

The case against Mrs. Candler and Keeling were dismissed in police court while Stoddard was bound over on a charge of violating the anti-vice law.

Mr. Candler married Mrs. Candler, formerly a public stenographer, and his second wife, on June 20, 1923, shortly after a suit for $500,000 in damages for breach of promise had been filed against him by Mrs. Onezima De Bouchelle, of New Orleans, in which a jury several months later found for the capitalist.

CAMPAIGN FOR WAR PREVENTION

One Opens To Day at Washington, D. C., With 36 Organizations Represented

MINISTERS TO PREACH

Stop War, Co-operate, Is the Slogan of the Movement—All Presidential Candidates Will Be Asked How Far Will You Co-operate For World Peace—Later the Same Question Will Be Asked of Senate Candidates.

Washington, July 26 (AP)—A campaign for world cooperation to prevent war will be opened today by 36 organizations represented in the national council for prevention of war.

"Stop war! Co-operate!" is the slogan adopted for the movement, and its sponsors say that it will cover nearly every state in the union. One hundred and fifty thousand ministers have been asked to preach sermons on World Co-operation next Sunday and public meetings to be held in all places.

The council has announced that all of the presidential candidates will be asked the question: "How far will you co-operate for world peace?" and that later the same question will be asked of candidates for the senate. It is proposed by the organization to carry on the work of this campaign for the next months after the opening days of its drive.

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the movement, said:

London, July 26—In all of the European capitals today a grave view is taken of the Austro-Serbian situation rising out of the present war. The Austro-Serbian government of a virtual ultimatum demanding the suppression of the Pan-Serbian movement and the punishment of those concerned in the assassination in Bosnia of the heir to the Austrian throne, Diplo-matic circles see in the dispute a real test of the possibility of Russian interference on behalf of the little Slav nation the danger of a general European war. On the other hand, the Austro-Serbian situation set in at the opening of business today, owing to the rumor that Russia had begun to mobilize its army in preparation for eventualities.

At about 4:30 yesterday afternoon as the steamer Buffalo was leaving Victoria lightning struck and shattered the front flagpole of the ship. Captain A. W. Freeman E. A. Manross sitting on the iron railing in front of the firehole received a shock which rendered him unconscious until after the boat reached Chautauqua. Fortunately for him, Miss Smith, a trained nurse from Franklin, Pa., was on the boat and went to the relief of the stricken man and gave directions for resuscitating him. Pilot Robert Coffield was stunned and blinded by the shock for a short time. Captain A. W. Freeman wheeled the boat to Chautauqua.

FORMER MINA MAN EXPLAINS K. K. K.

Rev. Will H. Fenton Methodist Minister at New Castle Addresses Audience of One Thousand Persons — Admits He Is Klansman.

There was given at Mina a few nights ago an address which attracted an audience of 1000 persons. It had been previously announced as an expose of the Ku Klux Klan on the special subject, "The Kind of Americans Needed Today." The address was characterized as a talk dealing with the imputed intolerance of the Klan in religious, political and social life by one who had made a careful study of the principles and methods of the organization and who would be fearless but fair in the discussion. The speaker was Rev. Will H. Fenton, a former pastor of the M. E. churches at Mina and Findley Lake, but now of New Castle, Pa. Automobile parties came to the meeting from Erie, New Castle, North East, Westfield, Sherman, French Creek, Corry, Clymer and Jamestown.

After the singing of one verse of America Rev. Mr. Fenton offered prayer. Rev. B. S. Green of the Mina M. E. church, in which the address was made, then formally introduced the speaker of the evening, calling attention to the fact that Rev. Mr. Fenton was born and reared at West Mina.

Rev. Mr. Fenton, with two companions is camping at Findley Lake. During the singing of America one of these companions dressed in robe and hood but without cowl entered and remained standing near the front of the auditorium. When prayer was offered he removed his hood and was seated with the audience.

The speaker at the outset of his remarks stated that he was a Klansman and a member of the New Castle organization. He said that other organizations asked who their representative people were. He answered this by stating who were not in the Klan.

He said in part: "The Klan is not attacking any religious function except in defense. The question of religion was forced into the Democratic convention and if it had not been for William Jennings Bryan protesting against the adoption of the anti-Klan plank, the Democratic party would have been ruined. The activities of the pope have held back the Methodist church from building a college in Rome, while at the same time the Catholics have 142 buildings surrounding the capitol building in Washington, which if properly manned with guns, and soldiers could take possession of this government."

He bitterly attacked the plan of parochial schools and emphasized the fact that the Klan was 100 per cent American and was striving to place the Bible in every home and school, and insisted that the teacher be instructed to read this Bible in the public schools. Continuing he said: "While addressing 10,000 in New Castle one of the audience informed me that the pope was making preparation to move to Washington. I replied 'If the pope of Rome wished to enter the United States as an American citizen and would uphold American institutions there were 7,000,000 Klansmen ready at Ellis Isle to greet him with open arms.'"

The audience of about 1000 received his remarks with enthusiasm and at several intervals there was loud cheering. Rev. Mr. Fenton is well known throughout this section and his past record speaks for itself.

It seemed evident from the way the lecture was received that several hundred would have joined the Ku Klux Klan had Rev. Mr. Fenton the authority to organize in the state of New York. He explained this by saying he had no jurisdiction outside of Pennsylvania, in which he lives. He gave the people of the congregation the privilege of asking any questions they chose, one of which was, Why does the Ku Klux Klan wear a cowl? He explained that if a business man in some locality was boycotted, but as the organization becomes stronger its members are leaving off the mask.

The hundreds present after rising and singing the Doxology departed for their homes through this section with a clearer idea of the principles for which the Klan stands.

Simple Home Treatment For Swollen Veins

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or because the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that many physicians are now prescribing. Ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller, and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. Emerald Oil is a powerful, yet harmless germicide and results are guaranteed. Sold in Jamestown at Clark's Cut Price Drug store, Corner Main and Third Sts. —Advertisement

How Good Is Your Business Judgment?

A friend making a will asks you to let him put in your name as executor. You consent, and probably forget—it seems so unlikely that you will ever be called upon to act.

But suddenly the responsibility is thrust upon you. Then you discover that executorship requires business ability of the highest order—close attention to complex detail, skillful accounting, exact knowledge of investments, taxation, and other technical matters. Besides, you may be held financially responsible for losses caused by poor judgment.

Executorship in these days calls for the business judgment and experience of more than one individual, no matter how capable he may be. In making your will consult your own lawyer or our Trust Officer and name this Trust Company as your Executor and Trustee.

RECREATION IN N.Y. STATE PARKS

Wilderness Playgrounds Are Now Open To All Tourists

ROADS AND TRAILS

Public Camp Sites And Fire Places Are Provided Thruout Forest Preserve, Says Martha L. Poland, Secretary of Conservation — Commissioner Alexander MacDonald in Radio Talk Broadcast From Schenectady, Friday Night.

(Special to The Journal) Albany, July 26.—The facilities offered for recreation in the state parks were discussed in a general broadcast from W. G. Y. General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Y., by Martha L. Poland, secretary to Conservation Commissioner Alexander MacDonald. She said:

"There are two great areas in New York state, the Adirondack and the Catskill mountain sections, which include within their borders state-owned lands, commonly called the 'Forest Preserve'. As many of you know, the purpose of the section is to preserve the streams which are slightly protected, that the mountains might be preserved, that the future timber supply might be insured, and that the state might have a playground where the people could go and enjoy recreational advantages, such as camping, hiking, canoeing, hunting and fishing. The Conservation commission has supervision of this great park, and is doing everything in its power, as fast as appropriations are available, to make it attractive and of practical value, not only to the people of the state of New York, to whom it belongs, but to visitors from other states and countries."

"At present the state owns in the Adirondack section towards two million acres and in Catskill region nearly 150,000 acres. Within the boundaries of the Adirondack park, which is slightly larger than the state of Connecticut, are to be found the highest mountains in the state, great areas of rolling country, numerous lakes and ponds both large and small, a network of streams and rivers, vast tracts of primeval forest, timbered regions and sections cleared for agriculture. The Catskill park, which is slightly less extensive, contains a wealth of mountain scenery. There are very few lakes in this section, but the Ashokan reservoir, which is part of New York city's water supply, forms a large lake twelve miles long and two miles wide, with forty miles of shore line, in the eastern part of the park."

Scattered throughout the Preserve, in both the Adirondack and Catskill sections, there are 130 camp sites, which consist of fire-places, cleared spaces to pitch tents, and in some cases room to park cars. In a few instances, on long trails and canoe routes, open camps or lean-tos have been added. While most of these are small, accommodating only one or two parties at a time, some are built on a much larger scale. For instance, there is a site on the Sandusky river near Wells which has sixteen fire-places; 1500 campers or picnickers are known to have used this particular place on a single day in July of last year. All of these camp sites are conspicuously marked by signs bearing the name of the Conservation commission. No permanent structures are allowed on state land, but under certain regulations of the commission tents, portable canvas houses, and lean-tos may be erected. To show the popularity of these camping facilities it is estimated that 100,000 persons used public camp sites and camped on the Forest Preserve during the summer of 1923."
