The New Church.

The Theologian of the Era has at last discovered "the Church of the Future." It is not the Episcopal Church, nor the Unitarian Church, nor the Roman Catholic Church. In short, it is no church claiming to have been established by Christ, or claiming any divine sanction. In short, his "church" is "Old Fellowship," which he thinks (as we understand him) to be a quite superior institution to the religion established by Jesus. We much regret that any "literary paper" should admit into its columns such paragraphs as the following: "Yet we find its proper place taken by an Order, the offering of human wisdom, guarded mainly by the doctrine of a broad Charity, yet making no claim to that evangelical condition of heart which the Church affects to regard as essential attributes. In other words, the human institution goes ahead of the divine in the work properly belonging to the divine." It is not in the same sense, the chaste spirit that animates Tom Paine's "Age of Reason," we are laboring under a total misapprehension.

Patched.

The news that the Sage Brush Corps has arrived in town, threatening to punch the heads of divers outcroppers and metropolitan squabblers, created a considerable alarm on Saturday. Thus far we have escaped the wrath of the Nevada stranger. Nevertheless, we did get our hand patched on New Year's Eve—in fact, it was "raw-patched," and the friend of Garibaldi was the puncher.

Diminished.

The coinage of 1,000 gold and silver watches received by C. COLLIER, 502 Montgomery street, with instructions to sell at any price, has been considerably diminished by persons purchasing for holiday presents. He is anxious to clear out those remaining, and will sell at a wonderfully low price, guaranteeing each watch.

A Delightful Accomplishment.

To be able to play on the guitar, piano or accordion is a delightful and most desirable accomplishment. It can be easily acquired. A competent teacher gives private lessons on these instruments at 710 Bush street, near Powell, at the low rate of $5 per month.

A Daniel Comes to Judgment.

The latest interior critical notice of Outcroppings that has fallen under our observation is from the Pajaro Times. Among other things, the said critic remarks: "Messrs. Hart and Wells hold superior place in the book, supported by the presence of two or three acknowledged poets." These who have read the book, or even glanced at it, know that Hart holds no place in it at all, not a single line of his poetry being included in the volume. But the literary crowd connected with the country press are altogether too accomplished in their vocation to render it necessary for them to see books before "fracturing" them.

Outcroppers Beware!

We learn with satisfaction that "the chieftain with the vitreous eye," the "chieftain of the land of 'Stovey,'" is in town, with a large and select assortment of fenshays and seagull-knees, for the benefit of Bret Hart and his outcroppers. During his stay we advise the outcroppers to purchase the Sunday Mercury, and sometimes a parcel or two of "history country paper in town," in as many as you learn, without foundation.
