

HIJACKER CASE OF TWO IS RESET

Joseph Pacheco and Gene Viola, brought back from San Quentin prison to face trial on an indictment charging robbery in connection with the hijacking, were today sent back to prison by Superior Judge Frank M. Ogden until March 22 when a further hearing of their case will be held.

The two men appeared in court today and waived a trial by jury in order that the case may be decided by the court. The record of their first trial was then admitted in evidence as containing all the facts relative to the charges they now face, and the trial was continued for further hearing and decision.

Both men were convicted of conspiracy to rob William Hazelhoff of 210 Begier Avenue, San Leandro, on October 6, and of robbing him of $608 in cash in addition to a quantity of whisky. In proving the conspiracy charges the district attorney introduced in evidence testimony concerning the hijacking of George Becraft of 3837 Coolidge Avenue, Oakland, on October 12. It is the robbery of Becraft that the men are now charged with.

Both Pacheco and Viola are under sentence of five years to life.

JOBLESS AIDED BY CAFE PLAN

From 10 to 20 men and women now receive daily jobs at the Penny-a-Dish cafe, 1017 Clay Street, earning meals, lodging, and from one to three dollars weekly in cash, according to a quarterly report of the operations of the cafe, issued today by E. R. Fries, manager.

The cafe, project of the Seventh Day Adventist Welfare Society, aims to provide wholesome and nourishing meals for a few cents to workers whose small earnings make it impossible for them to live otherwise.

From November 1, 1932, to January 31, 1933, 38,862 meals were served at an average cost of six cents each to patrons, Fries reports, and in addition, supplies were provided free to a few needy families as an emergency measure.
