MISSION IMPROVEMENT CLUBS

MEET AT HOLLY PARK HALL
New Officers Elected and Business of Importance to the District is Transacted.

The delegates to the Mission Federation of Improvement Clubs met Saturday night at Holly Park Club headquarters on Crescent avenue. The first business transacted was the election of the following officers for the ensuing six months: President, Mark L. McCord; vice president, P. J. Healy; secretary, L. E. Hackett; and treasurer, G. H. Roundy.

The following resolution was read and referred to the executive committee:

"Whereas, The Southern Pacific Company has been granted the right to construct steel bridges to replace the present wooden bridges over the streets which are now crossed within the Mission district, and

"Whereas, It is the sentiment of the residents of this district that the present steam railroad is a constant source of danger and an unmitigated nuisance; therefore be it

Resolved by the Holly Park Club, That the Board of Supervisors be requested to rescind the privilege granted."

The policy of the Federation of Improvement Clubs retaining their membership in the Anti-Japanese and Korean League was discussed at considerable length without arriving at any conclusion other than referring the matter to the next meeting of the club.

Secretary Hackett offered a resolution of condolence to the bereaved members of the family of the late Albert P. Seymour, a former member of the West of Castro Club. It was adopted and ordered spread on the minutes.

The meeting was addressed by Mrs. Helen Moore, a prominent educator, in a charge of the attendance of the children at the schools in this city. She dwelt at considerable length on the necessity of teaching morals and integrity to the growing-up children.

Places Visited by Burglars.

Mrs. F. Brant, 320 Florida street, reported to the police yesterday that her residence had been entered on Saturday night by prying open the rear door. Two oil paintings, several books, underwear, pot and pans, a coal stove and other articles were stolen. The burglars had been living in another house for some days, owing to a fire in their home.

Attacks His Stepmother.

Joseph Arcuri, a tailor, living at 825 Pacific street, attacked Joseph Gluffre, a merchant, living on Stockton street, near California, on Stockton street yesterday afternoon. They were arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace. When Gluffre was searched at the City Prison a loaded revolver was found in his pocket and an additional charge of carrying concealed weapons was booked against him. Gluffre married Arcuri's mother and the marriage was objectionable to Arcuri. He assaulted Gluffre on Saturday night also.

He was employed by Hyman Bros., 506 Mission street, and is accused of stealing $62 worth of stationery and printing. Part of the stolen property was recovered by McGowan yesterday.

Liddy Will Be Examined.

Former Customs Inspector Michael J. Liddy, of 224 Polson street, will be examined by the Insanity Commissioners to-day. He has been several times in sanitariums. On July 4 he made a murderous attempt on the lives of members of his family and then cut his own wrists with suicidal intent.

"The" Marks Wants "Swift-water Bill" to Keep Faith in an Alaska Mining Deal

Word has reached this city from the north to the effect that "Ike" Marks, the well known here, has become involved in litigation over mining properties with the famous "Swiftwater Bill" Gates and it is expected that a bitter fight will be waged in the Alaskan courts by the two men. Last year "Swiftwater Bill" Gates and Marks, in a deal of ready funds, although reputed to have just previously located several rich claims in Alaska, secured financial aid from Marks, with whom he entered into an agreement, specifically setting forth that Marks was to receive one percent of whatever profits were derived from the development of the mining properties.

Marks went to Alaska in March and the last heard from him up to a few days ago was that he was on Cleary Creek, about twenty miles from Fairbanks, where the claims in which he is interested are located. Several reports reached this city regarding "Swiftwater Bill" Gates, some to the effect that he had gone broke again, which would not have surprised many who know him, while other stories from the north were that the erratic miner's matrimonial tribulations had struck it rich.

Apparently there was considerable truth in the latter reports, for, according to the news recently brought out, Marks brought a suit for an accounting against Gates in Alaska and enjoined certain banks from paying over to the defendant $15,000, which they hold on deposit to the credit of Gates. It is claimed that this regarding "Swiftwater Bill" Gates and Marks is jointly interested and it is further claimed that the claims Gates has been developing are worth in the neighborhood of $300,000.

The story sent out from Alaska is that Marks was deposed as to the real value of the claims being worked by Gates and upon finally being apprised of the fact that the man he had generously stalked was enriching himself off of the properties, he carefully investigated the matter and learned enough to satisfy himself that it was time for him to command an accounting.

REMAINS OF SEVEN IN FOUR COFFINS

Manner of Death of Chinese at Pinole Brings About Complications.

Whether it was a matter of economy, or because it was impossible to segregate the remains of the seven Chinese who were blown into fragments in the powder explosion at Pinole on last Thursday morning, the remains of these unfortunate, or all of them that could be found, were packed in four coffins yesterday by the "cousins" of the departed men.

It was a gruesome funeral that started from Chinatown on the way to San Mateo Cemetery, where there were four hearses, with as many coffins, into which were packed promiscuously the remains of the seven Mongolians.

Another and sadder feature of the gruesome funeral from a Chinese point of view is the fact that the future generations of the relatives of the deceased will never be in a position to recognize the bones of their departed kinsmen when the time comes to meet in the hereafter. This was made evident to all who understood the superstition of the Chinese race from the fact that while there was liberal distribution of yellow paper thrown from the mourner's heaves, there was no solemn "tom toms" and no roasts or pork or toasted chickens. The reason of this was that the remains being so badly mixed it would not have been known for which late lamented chicken or pig offering were intended.

The late hours of those interred yesterday will be the subject of priestly intonations for the next sixty days, which is considered by the heathen to be the limit of time in which evil spirits are permitted to hover about an unlucky domicile.

Supervisors Find It Guilty of Falsehood in Regard to A. B. Clute's Work in Hauling Street Sweepings

Supervisors Find It Guilty of Falsehood in Regard to A. B. Clute's Work in Hauling Street Sweepings

PERFORMS CONTRACT WITH DUE DILIGENCE

Complaints Against Him Are Unfounded and All the Fault Lies With Political Employees of Department

As a result of the statement made by the Board of Public Works that there were nearly 800 loads of unhailed rubbish left on the streets because of the inefficiency of the contractor who was hired by the Board of Supervisors to cart the refuse away, the committees on Streets and Finance of the latter body met yesterday morning, took the testimony of Contractor Clute that there were less than two wagonfuls of trash, swept in piles which had not been taken away, and that the conditions had been greatly exaggerated by the Board of Public Works. It also found fault in certain parts of the city the street sweepers had been very lax and that filthy refuse was scattered about in a totally unarranted manner. The committee will meet again to-day and make a report on the investigation.

At the morning session Contractor Alva B. Clute appeared before the committees and stated that there was very little dirt left in piles upon the streets. With him he had a number of his workmen, all of whom testified that their employer had told the truth. Subsequent investigation showed that they had not lied to save Clute.

Clute made the following statement:

"I have not been helped by the Board of Public Works in any way. On the other hand I believe that it has done many things with the direct purpose of creating the impression that I am not doing my work well. I am only a few loads behind and I have only been working a week, and in that time I had to learn all the ropes. In the future I will be able to have all the swept-up piles of refuse removed without any delay on my part."

The testimony taken proved conclusively that the contractor was living up to the words of his contract. It showed that while a year ago each team was carrying only one load of refuse, now six, and in some cases seven, were being taken away by each. Each wagon holds 2.88 yards of dirt and the teams cannot haul more than this amount without danger of straining. Large street wagons could not be used for this purpose unless more horses were attached to them.

CARELESS SWEEPING.

Clute said he had offered to furnish the Board of Public Works with a team for part of the sprinkling wagons at $4 1/2 per day, but that he had never received any answer to his offers. The city is now paying $5 50 and $6 75 for teams for this purpose.

Not satisfied with the testimony of these witnesses, the Supervisors decided to make the tour of personal observation. They started at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and through the streets of the city until 6 o'clock in the evening. The first district, south of Market and east of Tenth street to Fourth, was found to have about ten wagonloads of unhailed dirt. The second district was found on Spear street and along the waterfront, south of Market street. Jackson street was in bad condition and so were parts of Union street. The residence district on the hills above Market street was found to be in bad need of sweeping, but there were few piles of dirt gathered up for the contractor to carry away.

BIRD SCATTERED ABOUT.

The Mission was probably the cleanest district of all. The sweepers had done good work and the haulers had cleared up nearly everything. Valencia street was found to be in good shape and all the side streets were well kept. The fact that the city had swept so well and dirt around in this part of the city is partly responsible for the first-class shape in which it is kept by the city employes.

The Supervisors returned to the City Hall with the facts to prove that the statement of the Board of Public Works that Contractor Clute was not doing the work in proper shape was unwarranted. They were highly pleased by the energy and skill with which Clute had arranged for the carting away of the street refuse. They were disappointed at the showing of the city sweepers, in charge of the Board of Works. In the flushways of many of the streets manure and flying debris had collected, seemingly for many weeks, without being once disturbed by an energetic sweeper. The condition along Fillmore and Devisadero streets was especially bad. In the downtown districts the sweepers had done their work very well and there was little fault to be found in the Mission. But in Chinatown and in the district above there the filth had been allowed to accumulate to an astonishing extent.

The Supervisors made note of the apparent disregard of the many contractors of this city for the law regarding the accumulation of rubbish and waste materials in the streets. Before many buildings, which had been finished for some time, a respoed pile of refuse was left over from the building of the structures. Old boards, shingles, stones and blocks of wood were in evidence all over San Francisco. Seemingly no attempt had been made to force the contractors to obey the law. The Board of Public Works, he said, "but it up to the Super-

LOCAL CAFES MAY SOON REORGANIZE

Reports Are Current That Managers Will Be Shifted.

Rumors are current to the effect that changes are soon to be made in the management of Tait's Cafe, the Tachau Tavern and the Cafe Zinkand. According to the report, which no one interested in the matter is willing to fully confirm, John Tait, manager and vice president of the Tait Cafe Company, is soon to retire from that establishment and will be succeeded by Albert Morrison, manager of the Tachau Tavern. The same report says that Tait is negotiating for the Cafe Zinkand and expects to assume its management, with a new company behind him, as soon as he leaves his present position.

When seen last evening Albert Morrison of Tachau Tavern was not disposed to discuss the reports further than to say that he had not yet been approached by the members of the Tait Cafe Company regarding the management of that new concern. Manager Tait of the latter establishment, however, admitted that negotiations were on between himself and those interested in the Cafe Zinkand, but no definite understanding had yet been arrived at.

"Whether I am to take the Cafe Zinkand," said Tait, "rests entirely on the question of terms, which has not yet been settled. We hope to arrive at a satisfactory understanding by next Wednesday. It is possible that I may go to the Cafe Zinkand with the backing of a new company."

This latter statement was made by Tait in response to a query as to the correctness of a report that the stockholders of the Tait Cafe are talking of reorganizing that establishment and changing its name after its present manager leaves.

PASSES RAISED BILL IN A KEARNY-STREET SALOON

Graud Eugenio Arrested on That Charge and Also for Carrying a Concealed Weapon.

Graud Eugenio, an Italian laborer, was arrested on Kearny street early yesterday morning and booked at the City Prison on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He had a loaded revolver in his pocket. About three hours later Policemen Joy and Nelson, who arrested him, learned that he had passed a bill raised from $1 to $10 on Walter Martin, bartender in a saloon at 923 Kearny street. An additional charge of passing a raised bill was booked against him. He was released on $250 cash bail, put up by an attorney.

Eugenio alleges that he went into a
