HERE ARE A FEW:

JACK LONDON makes a comparison and describes a phase of life that few, very few, people know anything about.

ELEANOR GATES tells a typical honey Western story that she alone can do so well. "A Bos for Material" tingles with interest throughout.

OWEN KILDARE tells what life means to him, a one time pugilist and a notorious politician, now a man who is devoting his life to the highest ideal.

BRUNO LESSING'S story, "Remoteness," will bring tears to the driest eye. It is not melodrama in its sentiment, but will find a deep, strong, responsive chord of sympathy in every human heart—in you.

LEE ANDERSON'S remarkable little story, "The King's Great Victory," is the tale of a little child that "grows-up," once having read it, will read again and again, and tell their friends about it.

JOHN H. GIRDNER, M. D., writes an authoritative article in popular style on the phenomenon of "Sleep and Death." This article is really a remarkable contribution to an inexhaustible subject.

FIFTEEN OTHER STORIES AND ARTICLES on interest-compelling subjects by other big authors.
