

MILITARY PARADE IN HONOR

What He Did In Few Hours

During the first two hours and thirty-five minutes that the President spent in San Francisco he dedicated a new building, rode through the streets, dining his hat to thousands, burned a mortgage, signed his name to a club register, returned the honorific made three formal addresses, and smiled at the world.

VIEW OF THE MARCH IN SAN FRANCISCO IN THE PARADE THIS MORNING AFTERNOON.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, DAVID STARR JORDAN AND PROF. JULIUS ROSEBATH AT RECEPTION.

M. H. DE YOUNG'S WELCOME.

The President, who had just returned from his trip to the West, was met at the Golden Gate by a large number of citizens, who were greeted by the Mayor, who was seated in the front of the parade. The President, who was dressed in a military uniform, was greeted by the Mayor, who was seated in the front of the parade. The President, who was dressed in a military uniform, was greeted by the Mayor, who was seated in the front of the parade.

GUNS GIVE WELCOME

The President was greeted at the Golden Gate by a large number of citizens, who were greeted by the Mayor, who was seated in the front of the parade. The President, who was dressed in a military uniform, was greeted by the Mayor, who was seated in the front of the parade.

President M. H. de Young Presenting the Loving Cup at the close of the parade in a scene of jubilation.

ROOSEVELT COMES AND IS GREETED

Big Guns Boom, Bells Clang, Whistles Blow and Populace Make Joyous Welcome to the Golden Gate

It was a dignified but noisy scene that met the President as he stepped from the train at the Golden Gate. The President, who was dressed in a military uniform, was greeted by the Mayor, who was seated in the front of the parade. The President, who was dressed in a military uniform, was greeted by the Mayor, who was seated in the front of the parade.

THE PARADE MAY.

The parade was held in honor of the President's visit to San Francisco. It was a grand affair, with many participants and a large crowd of spectators.

Enthusiastic Thousands Cheer President Along the Line of March

It was a fine military parade, military in the make-up and military in the preparation of the participants, and furthermore, it was a military parade and a military parade.

The parade was held in honor of the President's visit to San Francisco. It was a grand affair, with many participants and a large crowd of spectators. The President, who was dressed in a military uniform, was greeted by the Mayor, who was seated in the front of the parade.

THE PRESIDENT'S

The President's visit to San Francisco was a significant event. It was a grand affair, with many participants and a large crowd of spectators.